

The Stakes: A statement about my opponent

*Part 1
in a series*

I want to address a serious deficiency in the character of my opponent. My opponent possesses questionable goals, seeking a lover who will not blow his cover. My opponent shirks responsibilities, instead running down the road trying to loosen his load. I have personally witnessed my opponent stand on the corner in Winslow, Arizona, gawking at girls in flatbed Fords. It is time for you, the people of sf0.org to let your voices be heard. Do not say maybe, say NO, loud and clear. The Burn Unit 2007 campaign has obtained the testimony of seven women, speaking on condition of anonymity, about our opponent. Four want to own him, two want to stone him, only one says she's a friend of his. My opponent hasn't the decency to face the seven women on his mind, but instead prefers to "take it easy."

My opponent's track record of taking it easy has contributed to the environment of decadence and degredation we endure in our present era! It is time for the right thinking persons of sf0.org to make their stand.

Personally, I know the alleys, where my opponent feeds on the birds of night not even bobbies bicycling two by two can stop the blood & feathers flying what is the dream? I'll tell it, to live like they do, in the movies, San Francisco, you listening? Yeah, I bet you are hands up for Hollywood (hooray!) snappy on the air, hang in there, wall to wall, we'll save the world, what else? We'll save the girl, champagne on ice.

Vote today and put down the brutish savage miscreants of the past. The vainglorious wishes of systemic failures. Build a future worth singing about.
