1. AYE-AYES (pronounced “eye-eyes”) are distant relatives of lemurs. They are also among the rarest of mammals. These rodentlike primates are found solely in Madagascar, where they live in trees or amid patches of thick vegetation. Aye-ayes typically eat fruit and insect larvae -- using a long middle finger to probe the fruit for the larvae -- but they are especially fond of coconut meat and have teeth that can cut through the coconut’s hard shell. Aye-ayes have large eyes, excellent night vision, blackish brown fur, and a body less than 2 feet in length. The tail is very squirrel-like -- thick and bushy.

4. “And yet those painful, those ineluctable truths which dominated us and to which we were blind, the truth of our sentiments, the truth of our destiny, how often without knowing it, without meaning it, we have expressed them in words in which we ourselves doubtless thought that we were lying, but the prophetic value of which has been established by subsequent events. I could recall many words that each of us had uttered without knowing at the time the truth that they contained, which indeed we had said thinking that each was deceiving the other, words the falsehood of which was very slight, quite uninteresting, wholly confined within our pitiable insincerity, compared with what they contained that was unknown to us. Lies, mistakes, falling short of the reality which neither of us perceived, truth extending beyond it, the truth of our natures the essential laws of which escape us and require time before they reveal themselves, the truth of our destinies also.”

10. CASE STUDY: Nowak raced from Houston to Orlando wearing diapers in the car so she wouldn't have to stop to go to the bathroom, authorities said. Dressed in a wig and a trench coat, she waited for Shipman's plane to land and then boarded the same airport shuttle bus Shipman took to get to her car, police said. Shipman told police she noticed someone following her, hurried inside the car and locked the doors, according to the arrest affidavit. Nowak rapped on the window, tried to open the car door and asked for a ride. Shipman refused but rolled down the car window a few inches when Nowak started crying. Nowak then sprayed a chemical into Shipman's car, the affidavit said. Shipman drove to the parking lot booth and police were called.
